Why so much emphasis on an undelivered message. Shi- can it! Who cares, and move on!

Can you elaborate on what you are trying to do with an example. I am not quite sure what you are asking...

Subject: sendmail switch

Hi Guys,

Can someone help me in not sending the undelivered mail to the sender using sendmail. I am running sendmail on AIX 4.3.3.

I have tried my best but could not succeed

In continuation with the above question, I have encountered -N switch which can be used during startup. But I am not sure whether this is the right option I am looking at. I have tested with this option but of no use still the sender is able to get the undelivered message.

Can someone tell me how to use this switch, if any one of you have used it before.
