How about July 7?

Would be perfect to release FreeBSD 7.0 on 2007-07-07. ;-)

Just kidding, of course ... I'm aware that that would be too early, unfortunately. It's better take more time for testing and shaking out the bugs.

Personally I think that 7.0 will be a huge success. People will love things like gjournal, ZFS, the improvements in the TCP and threading areas etc. It's a pity that dtrace doesn't seem to make it into the release, though.

Best regards
Oliver

Looking forward to see 7.0-RELEASE, I also agree (and hope) it'll be an excellent release.

Keep up the good work everyone!
