He's not a src-committer and he prefers to let a src-committer do it. I offered to commit it, but so far either the man-page was missing (what's the status of this?) or a bug showed up.

If everyone is happy with the current patchset (if the man-page is still missing, we may agree that it can be delivered at a later time), I can try to get time to do it at the weekend (but feel free to beat me in committing it).

I have an even better suggestion: sponsor him for a commit bit. He obviously has the required skills.
