Which release of FreeBSD is best for a production environment? I am aware of the different branches of development: CURRENT, STABLE, RELEASE and I think I understand the meaning of each from what I have read. Perhaps not since I am writing this question! But, what I would like to know is when I am setting up a production system, or desktop for that matter, which is considered THE most stable of the choices in versions. Is it in the 4.x branch, 5x etc...

Where can I get clarification on this topic – any direction would be welcome.

Thanks,

Michael
