Hello to you <?untranslatable name?>, too. :-)

Perhaps so. You might try booting with APCI disabled, or in safe mode, and see whether that works.

Also, it would help to tell us what hardware you have. If you can boot some form of Linux, a dmesg from that would be useful. Or you might try using FreeBSD 4.10 instead of 5.x.

Welcome. You might find convenient information from:

<http://www.freebsd.org/ru/index.html>

<http://www.freebsd.org/ru/docs.html>

[ Woah! I don't have much problems following the FreeBSD pages in French or Spanish, or even in German. But I only recognized the Docs link because of the "FAQ" entry when viewed in Russian. :-) However, I have learned that "kohelept" means "concert". ]
