First, I don't think atapicam is an "exotic" driver. I'm using it for several years (in fact, since it was an inofficial patch, before it hit the repository). It's working perfectly fine for me, including with today's RELENG_6.

You have atapicam as a kernel module; and what version of atapi-cam.c?

It looks like this one is current: Revision 1.54

found here:

<http://www.freebsd.org/cgi/cvsweb.cgi/src/sys/dev/ata/atapi-cam.c?rev=1.54>

But! the cvsweb seems to say that someone name scottl last touched it:

```
#include <sys/cdefs.h>
__FBSDID("$FreeBSD: /repoman/r/ncvs/src/sys/dev/ata/atapi-cam.c,v 1.54
2007/05/02 15:30:24 scottl Exp $");
```

Where I have this:

```
#include <sys/cdefs.h>
__FBSDID("$FreeBSD: src/sys/dev/ata/atapi-cam.c,v 1.42.2.5 2007/05/15
```

Re: atapicam cd error from; was: freebsd-stable Digest, Vol 207, Issue 9

16:19:42 thomas Exp $");

On: 6.2-STABLE FreeBSD 6.2-STABLE

So, Oliver, you are using (I think) the file touched by scottl on 2007/05/02?

Is that correct?
