Does anybody have any idea what else I could try?

Is it possible for you to put the machine up on serial console somehow?
This might permit you to see where the problem is occurring.

Assuming you're using the FreeBSD boot straps, put the string "-Dh" in /boot.config, then reboot the box. Have another machine attached to the FreeBSD machine's COM1 port, set to 9600bps 8N1, and see what happens.
