Hi admins,

I have a ftp script which in turns call another script.

The primary ftp script:

#!/bin/sh
#
#
DIR=/usr/local/bin
FILEHOME=/adminlog/data
LOG=/var/adm/data_ftp.log ERR=/var/adm/data_ftp.err
Check for system1data and do the ftp
cd $FILEHOME
if [ -f system1data ]
then echo "Script started :`date`" > $LOG echo "ftp of system1data has started" >> $LOG ftp -in < $DIR/ftp_data.sct >> $LOG 2> $ERR STATUS=$?
    # If the result code is not 0 or the size of the error log is > 0
    if [ STATUS -ne 0 -o -s $ERR ]
    then
        echo "An error occured with the ftp" >> $LOG 2>> $ERR
        exit
    else
        echo "ftp of system1data has finished" >> $LOG fi
else
    echo "system1data not found" >> $LOG
fi
```

The second script: (ftp_data.sct)

more ftp_data.sct
open xxx.xxx.xxx.xxx
user anonymous guest@unknown
bin
cd datafolder
prompt
```

HP-UX-Admin: [HPADM] automated ftp with anonymous user id

lcd /adminlog/data
mput syste*
bye
#
```

this is the error log:

Script started :Mon Nov 24 09:52:00 EST 2003
ftp of system1data has started Connected to server. Logging in...
220 kenny Microsoft FTP Service (Version 5.0).

Please login with USER and PASS.
Interactive mode on.
Local directory now /adminlog/data
mput system1data? Please login with USER and PASS.

---

If I run this script manually, then it takes the user id (anonymous) and password (guest@unknown); but not through the automated script.

any idea why?

Regards,
Balaji
