

Re: sending mal with attachments

Source: <http://unix.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.unix.bsd.freebsd.misc/2006-01/msg00643.html>

- From: Glyn Millington <wistanswick@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 16 Jan 2006 19:44:04 +0000
-

Steve O'Hara-Smith <steveo@xxxxxxxxxxx> writes:

> On Mon, 16 Jan 2006 16:25:50 +0000
> Glyn Millington <wistanswick@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:
>
>> "bernard" <bernard_reims@xxxxxxxxxxx> writes:
>>
>>> Hi, I would like to send a mail to a user, with a file as attachment, >>> and do it in one line, without >>> going into a creation window or something else. In fact, I need to include >>> this line
>>> in a batch file .
>>> Do you know how I can manage this ?
>>
>> have a look at
>>
>> man mail
>
> Last time I looked /bin/mail did not handle attachments,

Well – I'm sorry for being supercilious! On my system mail is a link to "nail", which is like mail on steroids :-) I had never noticed that when I do "man mail" what I get is nail

Might be worth looking at nail though – its available in ports and certainly does handle attachments.

atb

Glyn

- References:

- ◆ sending mal with attachments
 - ◇ From: bernard
- ◆ Re: sending mal with attachments
 - ◇ From: Glyn Millington
- ◆ Re: sending mal with attachments
 - ◇ From: Steve O'Hara-Smith

- Prev by Date: Re: Installing MS Office on FreeBSD
- Next by Date: Re: Installing MS Office on FreeBSD
- Previous by thread: Re: sending mal with attachments
- Next by thread: xenerama breaking remote windows with Xorg/ssh tunnel
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread