

Re: Data Files in C on Linux

Source: <http://unix.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.unix.programmer/2004-05/0121.html>

From: David Schwartz (davids_at_webmaster.com)

Date: 05/04/04

Date: Tue, 4 May 2004 14:44:27 -0700

"Xarky" <bernardpace@yahoo.com> wrote in message news:bc42e1a.0405040849.64d56225@posting.google.com...

- > I need to store the following data in a file (mainly for a small
- > database):
- > int position;
- > *char data;
- > int check;
- >
- > Also I have to add the data mentioned at EOF or in the middle of the
- > file, or delete at any position. Can this be done on Linux by using
- > any available system calls.
- >
- > I hope this can be than in an easy way.

Sure, pick whatever database you like best and use it. Why are you trying to re-invent the wheel?

DS