

Re: Double Vision – Tridia.

Source: <http://unix.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.unix.sco.misc/2005-09/0064.html>

From: Bob Bailin (72027.3605_at_compuserve.com)

Date: 09/07/05

Date: Wed, 07 Sep 2005 17:58:10 GMT

"E Arredondo" <atk@sbcglobal.net> wrote in message
news:ozDTe.1331$eQ7.500@newssvr21.news.prodigy.com...

>

> "Bob Bailin" <72027.3605@compuserve.com> wrote in message > news:jbtTe.528$au2.394@newssvr17.news.prodigy.com...

>>

>> "E Arredondo" <atk@sbcglobal.net> wrote in message
>> news:hLoTe.671$zq6.441@newssvr27.news.prodigy.net...

>>> Does anybody knows about the whereabouts of double vision for SCO ? I'm >>> upgrading my Server and when I try to migrate to the new server my Double >>> vision license it wants an activation code from their website, but that >>> website seems old, the last News about their company was on Aug 04'. Are >>> they still on business? Or is there a better program to use on SCO to be >>> able to do VNC on other terminals ?

>>

>> www.tridia.com works for me.

>>

>> DoubleVision for Unix/Linux was officially retired at the end of 2003, and >> was replaced by DoubleVision Pro. Give their sales dept. a call and >> I'm certain they'll be happy to help you out.

>>

>> Bob

>>

>>

>

> Thanks for answering, I tried calling them for the last 15 days but all phones sound > busy, even the 800 number. I wonder if they are located close to New Orleans and have > flooding problems.

No, they're in Kennesaw, GA which was not in the path of the storm.

I suspect the company may have met an untimely demise. The website is on auto-pilot. What's unusual is that a company like Tridia with a popular niche product, even if it's floundering, is usually acquired by another company before closing its doors. I wonder what happened.

Bob