

Re: Gigaswift card device name

Source: <http://unix.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.unix.solaris/2004-09/2294.html>

From: Scott Howard (scott_at_hunterlink.net.au)

Date: 09/30/04

Date: 30 Sep 2004 11:06:51 GMT

Neil Truby <neil.truby@ardenta.com> wrote:

> I've fitted one of these:

>

> Sun Quad GigaSwift Ethernet UTP Adapter (QGE) full length PCI card

> *with 4 * 10/100/1000 BASE-T Ethernet interfaces*

>

> But how can I tell if Solaris is "seeing" it, and what device name it would > have? I've trawled the web for this seemingly basic question, but I can't > find it ...

If you added it post-install, it will be ce2, ce3, ce4 and ce5.

If you installed pre-install it will probably be ce0 -> ce3, and the on-board ethernet will be ce4 and ce5.

Scott.