

Re: Solaris 8 server monitoring script /tool – Beginner Question

Source: <http://unix.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.unix.solaris/2005-06/2756.html>

From: Andy France (andyATzespriDOTcom)

Date: 06/30/05

Date: Thu, 30 Jun 2005 10:39:53 +1200

ps wrote:

> in article 1120003102.361865.44590@g14g2000cwa.googlegroups.com, underh20 at > humphrey.c.chan@gmail.com wrote on 6/28/05 4:58 PM:

>

>

>>Hello,

>>

>>I am a junior SA. We have a Solaris 8 Sun F6800 server, currently >>running Oracle DB and Veritas file system & volume manager I've been >>asked to provide notification to my management (via email, SMS to >>mobile) during any of the following occurrences at the server on a >>regular basis :

>>

>>- Hardware malfunction alerts

>>- Disk (root, mirror, SAN) utilization alerts and statistics

>>- CPU/Memory utilization statistics

>>- Server Unavailability & appliation/services inactive alerts

>>

>>Are there any scripts or free tools out there that will do the trick??

>>. I need something simple, easy to configure and doesn't hog up >>resources.

>>

>>

>>Thanks in advance for your help,

>>

>>Humphrey

>>

>

>

> <http://www.bb4.org/> is a good start.

>

Or maybe even <http://sourceforge.net/projects/hobbitmon> !

This is a true GPL'ed open source BB server replacement with many performance and scalability improvements.

comp.unix.solaris: Re: Solaris 8 server monitoring script /tool – Beginner Question

(Note that currently you will still need to run the BB client from the first link with the hobbit server)

Andy.